PATIENT SUFFERING.

HE BATTLES WITH REMINISCENCES
WHILE LIFE EBBS AWAY.

Waiting for the Tide of Eternity. The Old Warrior's Book-Triangular Difficulty in Which Mark Twain and the Century Figure.

New York, March 10.—Gen. Grant passed another uncomfortable night. He was even more restless than ever before, and did not attempt to find rest in bed until an early hour in the morning. He could not long remain quiet and nervously paced the floor in the hope that tired nature would bring him the relief he sought and needed. Hour after hour he walked the floor, his steps becoming more feeble until he sank into his chair greatly fatigued. Happily there was an absence of pain and his unconscious was the result of over strain and over wrought nerves.

Early in the morning his eyes became heavy and he at last fell asleep, and retiring between five and six o'clock, he slept soundly and peacefully until mid-day. He was much refreshed and upon a pleasant day. No pain was complained of, and his condition showed such marked improvement over that of the previous day that his family were considerably encouraged.

It is reported that at the general's urgent request the Rev. Dr. John P. Newman, formerly of the Madison Avenue Presbyterian church, who is now in California, has been written concerning the former's condition, and he has been asked to visit the General. Dr. Newman is a personal friend of the General, and while president the former was a parishioner of the reverend gentleman.

Gen. Grant's condition is said to have been alarming, if not actually dangerous, for at least a week previous to the present location of the state of his health. The news was purposely kept from the public for fear it would be misinterpreted. It was said that the General was suffering from a severe attack of indigestion, and that it was necessary to keep him from eating anything. It was also said that the General was suffering from a severe attack of indigestion, and that it was necessary to keep him from eating anything.

Gen. Grant is exerting himself to get his reminiscences written out before he dies. He has been able to write several lines every day. In order to hasten the completion, an amanuensis was employed, a woman who could use a type writer as rapidly as he would be likely to dictate. His condition was such that the use of a type writer was necessary. The amanuensis was a woman who could use a type writer as rapidly as he would be likely to dictate.

There has been a falling out between Grant and Howell built, the manager of the Century Company. It was all but concluded that the autobiography should be published by that concern. The general was paid $1,000 for his work, and it was decided that the Century Company should publish it. The general was paid $1,000 for his work, and it was decided that the Century Company should publish it.

The negotiations did not result in a contract, however, and for the future Mark Twain is understood to be responsible. He has not been so reckless a humorist as he was in the past, and he is now a more serious writer. He has not been so reckless a humorist as he was in the past, and he is now a more serious writer.

There was no completed bargain to break, as between us and the general, said Smith, "but we were in a position to sell the Century Company's right to the title page of the book. It came to our ears almost daily that the Century Company was in the process of making up and making up the work was generally sought and followed.

WASHINGTON POLITICS.

THE POLITICAL NEWS UNDER THE NEW ADMINISTRATION.

Mr. Cleveland and Civil Service Measures Doings in Congress—Cost of the Inauguration—Capital Chapter.

WASHINGTON, March 10.—Notwithstanding all the civil service reform protestations of the president, there is much substantial suffering going on here among department people who have lived up to their income tax year. A few of them could do nothing if it turned out to grass, now when their eyes are dimmed and their strength failing. Yet the administrative idea is to turn the street, as Senator Payne said in his address last winter. A disgusting expression of this idea was made by some democratic clubs last night. They marched through the city, carrying banners, "Turn the rascals out" in derisive tones.

But the president looks every inch a man who could not be hindered in his efforts to reform the service and do what he thinks right. The current picture of him was made when he was younger.

Cost of the Inauguration. WASHINGTON, March 10.—The committee which had charge of the financial part of the inaugural celebration are now hard at work. They are now hard at work. They are now hard at work. They are now hard at work.

A Great Quartermaster. WASHINGTON, March 10.—A rather venerable man, with a mind in his countenance, and a face that was a study in itself, was seen in the city. He was a man of many parts, and he was a man of many parts. He was a man of many parts, and he was a man of many parts.

ALARM AMONG CATTLE OWNERS. The Cattle-Pneumonia Among the Asylum Herd at Fulton. FULTON, Mo., March 10.—The huge plague among the asylum cattle is much more serious than it was at first. It is much more serious than it was at first. It is much more serious than it was at first.

Exciting Times Expected Along the Line of the Missouri Pacific. ARKANSAS, Mo., March 10.—A strike of the employees in the yards and shops of the Missouri Pacific Railroad was arranged to take place at 3 o'clock Saturday, but at that hour Superintendent Hargrave arrived and told the men that if they would keep at work he would see that they received their old pay. That was satisfactory and work was resumed. But when asked to sign a notice to that effect the superintendent refused, and a general strike was commenced.

Not a Candidate. BUFFALO, N. Y., March 10.—Many rumors have been about concerning the probable appointment of William H. Russell, President Cleveland's secretary, to an important place in the new administration. It was said before the cabinet was made that he would be appointed to the position of secretary of the treasury. But it is now said that he will not be appointed to that position.

Freight Train Wrecked. LAWRENCE, Kan., March 10.—A disastrous collision between a freight train and a passenger train took place on the Atchafalaya, between Santa Fe and Fort Smith, Sunday morning. The passenger train was wrecked, and the freight train was wrecked. The passenger train was wrecked, and the freight train was wrecked.

Robbing a County of its Funds and Electing Treasurer. GAINESVILLE, Ga., March 10.—The middle growing out of the mismanagement of the funds of Habersham county in this state has been brought to a crisis by the confession of Dr. C. Martin to the grand jury, acknowledging the burglary of the county safe, and implicating several of the most prominent citizens of the county, among them the tax collector and the treasurer. When Peyton's pistol was examined it was discovered that there were three empty and three loaded chambers and he had pulled the trigger on the empty barrels.

FATIGUE AND DISTRESS

GENERAL BULLER'S GUARD IN A DEPLORABLE CONDITION.

The French in China—Parisian Postcard. The War Measures Among the Great Powers of Europe Discussed—General Foreign News.

KONTI, March 10.—The rear guard of Gen. Sir Buller's army has reached here and they presented a sorry sight. The men are completely fatigued and much distressed from the sufferings endured on the route from Gakuli. They, like the detachments that preceded them, report that the march was most tiresome and perilous, being constantly harassed. Many were picked off or wounded by the enemy's sharpshooters, while the terrible heat prostrated scores and made life almost unbearable.

The French in China. PARIS, March 10.—Further advices from Tonquin state that the losses of the beleaguered French garrison at Thuyquang were fifty killed and thirty-three wounded before the arrival of succor. Gen. De la Motte, who, after two days' fight succeeded in relieving Thuyquang, suffered a loss of sixty-six killed, and 133 wounded. The French lost thirty officers in fighting in Thuyquang.

PARIS, March 10.—Zola's "Germinal" has been issued in book form. The author says the work was dictated by dictation. Zola is not an habitual Bible reader, but the text about loving and chastening must have been in his mind when he wrote it, for a picture of mining life was never painted. "Germinal" is to be followed by a study of artist life. After that Zola will have himself for the making crowd in some far house, to settle down to a novel of pleasant life, forgetful of, or, as the author in his naturalistic creed prefers to call it, "a naive post."

Dore and Delacroix are the artistic lions of the week. A melancholy interest attaches to the exhibition of Dore's sketches at the Cercle de la Librairie. They show only too plainly the weakness as well as the strength of the dead artist. The drawings are far superior to the water-color paintings by which they are represented. They include many of the Ariosto illustrations, the grand composition of Dante and Virgil being ferried across the sea, and a small portrait of one of the many similar portraits of a lady who played a great part in Dore's life. Among the water colors are powerful portraits of Dore's mother and his old nurse, Francois—dearly given the place of honor. Several of his Alpine studies and the view of St. Maud, lent by the Comte de Paris, are also exhibited. Next month several hundred of Dore's most important works, now in his studio in the Rue Francoise, will be brought to the hammer. It is doubtful whether the De la Croix exhibition, opened recently at the Ecole des Beaux Arts, will satisfy those who for half a century have been raving about his genius. The age is critical, and critics do not spare even Victor Hugo. It is unanimously admitted that "Les Convulsionnaires de Tanguy," "Les Croixes a Constantinople," "La Mort de Sanzaupio," and a dozen other works, are superior in color to and finer than the finest efforts of those masters of color, the Oriental carpet workers. But the critics say that the painter did not spare even Victor Hugo. But the critics say that the painter did not spare even Victor Hugo.

A new Easter mass, by M. Charles Grunel, will be formed with great pomp at St. Eustache, composed by the special desire of Cardinal Guiblot. It is most solemn in character, and all theatrical effects are excluded. The plan to connect Paris and London with pneumatic tubes has been reported favorably by French engineers and submitted to the government. It is proposed that two pneumatic tubes be laid along the line of the Northern railway from Paris to Calais, thence across the channel to Dover, and following the line of the South-eastern railway to London. Letters could be thus transmitted between the two capitals in one hour. Wagonettes like those now used to transport telegrams from Paris are to be used, carrying ten kilograms and capable of carrying five kilograms weight of mail matter. Twenty pneumatic tubes are to be started every hour. The cost is estimated to be $7,000,000. The total distance is 475 kilometers.

Belgian and British. CULCHAEN, Sunday, March 10.—A party of twenty-seven British soldiers, the "Tiger Club" Krasno Bersal recently captured Quila, a town fourteen leagues from here, and killed the telegraph operator and looted the village. They left in the direction of San Lorenzo, heavy detachments of troops have been sent in pursuit of the bandits.

Wars and Humors of Wars. LONDON, March 10.—The Daily News says that the chief between peace and war reads entirely with Russia. "We cannot," it says, "freedom from our position if we would, and if the worst should come it will be the enemies that will be summoned to the rescue and the summons will not be in vain."

Smells of Bluff. LONDON, March 10.—The Times' attitude is exceedingly propitious. It urges upon the government the immediate necessity for British occupation and fortification of Herat, and says that if Russia wishes to fight she has only to say so. England is not only ready, but willing.

Vessels Searched. SHANGHAI, March 10.—There is much excitement here over the fact that English and American steamers bound for Tientsin have been boarded, their papers examined and cargoes searched by French war vessels.

Ready for Troops. LONDON, March 10.—Advices from Calcutta state that the British railways are prepared to transport thousands of troops to Afghanistan at a day's notice.

Tunneling the Simpson. GENOVA, March 10.—Ten million dollars have been subscribed to expedite the work of boring a tunnel under the Simpson mountain for a new railway.

Mexican Murders. JALISCO, Guadalajara, March 10.—Bandits attacked the train of Pedro A. Gonzalez near Arenal, this state, and stole goods valued at $7,500.
